Office of The Post, Houston, Monday, August 28. There was but little done in the cotton mar-On reports of rains in Arkansas and light showers in some portions of Texas, the openpoints. Price was also a seller, which h some influence in giving a weaker tone to the crading. As the day progressed, however there was a reaction, brought about by heabuying orders, and prices advanced to with 1 to 2 points of Saturday's last figures, which quotations the market closed. New Orleans, just before the close, broke reports of rain at Waco and closed at a d cline of 4 to 6 points. New York had closbefore this news was sent out and consequently was not affected by it, and it will hard reflect on temorrow's market, as it was but aprinkte. Receipts at Houston today were 4530 bale against 1411 same day last year. Tomorrow expectations are 11,133 bales, as compare with 7792 same day last year. The apot markets at all places clored un changed-Honston steady, sales 402 bales; Gal veston steady, sales 5; New Orleans steady sales 7800; New York quiet, sales 115; Live pool quiet, sales 6000. Liverpool futures opened steady, 1 point u ruled quiet, I to I points lower, and close quiet, with a further loss of 1 point, 2 point lower than Saturday's close. New Orleans opened steady, 4 to 7 points down, ruled stendy at about same figures, and closed steady, regaining 1 to 2 points, 4 to 5 New York opened stoady, 5 to 11 points down, ruled stoady, August losing 15 points, September and October 1 point and November 5 points, other months unchanged to 1 point up, and closed quiet and stoady, 5 to 7 points up, or 2 to 3 points below the last figures of Saturday. (Special to The Post.) New Orleans, August 28.-W. H. Bacheller & Co., Ltd., gay of cotton: The early advance in Liverpool was not only lost before the iose, but an additional decline of 2-64d essablished, which was not without effect on our market. General rains in the Gull and Acsante Sintes, lower temperature in Terms, with scattered showers, all combined to put three lowers, and we opened at 7 points decline, and, despite an advance inter, the closing slower practically the same level as the opened. Receipts are common, and this carly accommand on this aide is due to the policy of the aphaners. The present receipts are principally composed of old colfor, which induces the helici that a huge invisible restrict has been carried over from the monater crops of the next two years, which should be indicative of better prices to follow. The position is still criminal. Good general rains would indenthely influence selling on so extreme which there remains some coupt as to whether a serious decline would follow or not, as such a course would be checked to some extent by the shorts, who have been awaiting a favorable opportunity to have been awaiting a favorable opportunity to take it their lines, while on the other hand the builts are stranding neide to buy on any traterial decline. WANT SCHOONERS FOR COTTON. There is considerable inquies for schooner com for cotton from Galveston to New Engroom for cetton from Galveston to New Eng-land noints. Just at present schooners are hard to get. Owners are reluctant to sead such vessels to the gulf at this time with coal carnees, as this is what they consider the hurricane season. Added to that there is a dearth of sail tonnage offering. The schooner trade along the Atlantic coast is brisk and the supply of vessels is hardly equal to the demand, owing to the large number of schooners lost in storms within the last twelve mounts. st twelve months.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Heavy Arrivals of New Wheat Forced the Price Down.

The Market for Provisions Was Firm but Dull, Closing Unchanged to 7 1-2e Higher.

Chicago, August 28 .- A heavy increase in the arrivals of new wheat in the Northwest was taken advantage of by elevator people and bears today to force wheat down and the market closed at about 46c decline, September corn was weak on renewed liquida-

Liverpool showed but a small opening decline and more than recovered it at the close there, Russia this week reported shipments of 499.000 5.555.000 bushels. Northwestern receipts were semewhat larger but not enough to bearschewhat larger, but not enough to bearishly affect the market. Minneapolis and Duluth reported arrivals of 392 cars. Chicago received 115 cars. Outside markets were weaker than this and some pressure was put on the market by professionals, and elevator people which caused a temporary decline.
September opened \(\frac{1}{4}\) \(\frac{1}{2}\) cars higher at 70%, and point of the day. Elevator people and professional bears were slow to take advantage of this and pounded the market persistently from then until the end of the session. December finally declined to 71% and September to 70. There was a tendency on the part of aborts to cover at those figures and a slight rally occurred, but the general feeling was weak at the close. The seaboard reported a large export bushless on the break, but the cash market here was poor. Atlantic port

New York Cotton. New York, August 28.—The market for coton futures, after opening easy at a decline of points, worked within a narrow range of s points, worked within a narrow range of changes. For a time business was very active, with liquidation the principal feature, following unestisfactory cable accounts and small sales of cotton in Liverpool. Official forecasts failed to indicate any general break in the Southwest drouth, while the weather statistics confined the actual raintsti in Texas to little more than one inch at Houston and Longview and scattering showers elsewhere.
